

OCT 12 1925 ✓

"HEADS UP" ✓

CAST

✓ 6 Rules ✓

©CIL 21897

CHARACTER

PLAYED BY

Breckenridge Gamble.	Maurice "Lefty" Flynn
Angela.	Kathleen Myers
Malofich.	Kalla Pasha
Cortez.	Jean Perry
Losada.	Milton Ross
Biff.	Harry McCoy
Anita.	Hazel Rogers
Commandante.	Ray Ripley
Spy.	Robert Cautier
Zeke.	Raymond Turner

.

✓ Story.	A.B. Barringer ✓
✓ Continuity.	Rob Wagner ✓
Directed by.	Harry Garson

Released by F.B.O.

Release Date: August 2, 1925.

Footage:

.

Breckenridge Gamble, whose wealth has not robbed him of his desire for a little independence, is waited on hand and foot by his many servants. It annoys him that he can not make a move without some lackey anticipating his wishes. Life is a dull routine for him, and when he sees a personal in the paper, advertising for a "single man for secret mission; must speak Spanish" he immediately presents himself, hoping for excitement.

Breckenridge gets plenty of it! He makes a hit with the oil men who are striving to get possession of some concessions in Centralia and who advertised for the "single man" by taking the message they deliver to him without question. All he is told is that he must give this message personally to President Iosada of Centralia --and with that sketchy information away he goes.

With Biff, his chauffeur and Zeke, his own colored valet, Breck Gamble arrives at the steamship dock, where he is "framed" by Anita Vascos, an unscrupulous adventuress and her two South American companions, all of whom are working for a rival oil group in Centralia. In a fight over a pretended injury to the woman Gamble is knocked over the head and shanghaied aboard a tramp freighter. He has previously hidden the precious "message" in the lining of his suitcase, however, and the conspirators do not get it.

Aboard the freighter a wild steer breaks loose, and Gamble subdues it in a terrific fight. The steamer is bound for Centralia, and when it arrives Gamble finds himself the center of an intrigue of great proportions. Enrique Cortez is the leader of the faction trying to upset Iosada's kind-hearted but somewhat weak rule.

(more)

Cortez is in love with Angelica Losada, beautiful daughter of the President, and is hand in glove with the rival oil interests. Gamble, who decides most things in life by tossing a coin, tries to deliver his message to Losada, but finds that the President has been imprisoned by the rebel Cortez. She tells the big American where her father is and shows him his photograph. Cortez and his soldiers finally capture Gamble, Biff and Zeke after many chases and escapades, and put them in prison.

In the little jail Gamble cooks up a novel plan of escape. He and his companions effect their liberty, and Gamble impersonates the prison "Commandante", releases all the other prisoners and organizes an army to help Losada, who is popular with the masses. He arrives at the Palace just in time to save Losada the disgrace of abdicating and turns over to him the precious paper which is disclosed to be a draft for five million pesos from the oil interests. With this, Losada is able to pay the army; while Angelica and Gamble are united. Breck tossing a coin and finding that Fate decrees he shall stay there.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress